SECTION 01

The name.

Our name is brightplace. Always lowercase. Always one word. No exceptions: not at the start of a sentence, not in a headline, not in a hashtag.

DO

brightplace helps families find a place to live.

Lowercase even at sentence start.

---

DON'T

Brightplace ·
BrightPlace ·
BRIGHTPLACE

Never capitalize the b. Never split the word.

In running text

Treat it like any common noun. "I tried brightplace last week." If the name lands at the start of a sentence and the lowercase reads strangely, rewrite the sentence so it doesn't.

SECTION 02

Logo and symbol.

Two marks. The wordmark for nearly everything. The symbol for tight spaces (avatars, favicons, app icons, social profile pictures).

WORDMARK · LIGHT

WORDMARK · DARK

SYMBOL · LIGHT

SYMBOL · DARK

Do

Keep clear space around the mark equal to the height of the symbol. Use the white version on dark photos. Use full color on white or paper backgrounds.

Don't

Don't recolor, stretch, outline, drop shadow, or set the mark on a busy photo without a tint. Don't lock it to other logos without the agreed-upon partnership template.

SECTION 03

Color.

Three colors do nearly all the work. White is the fourth, and it's load-bearing. Let it breathe.

Orange
#F5A623

Primary. CTAs, accents, section dividers, the warm side of every page.

Teal
#00BCD4

Secondary. Subheadings, eyebrows, highlights, supporting links.

Dark
#1A1A1A

Body text on light surfaces. Background for inverted treatments.

Pairing rule

Orange and teal each carry their own job. Use both on a page only when the teal is doing structural work (a subhead, a divider). Never both as accents on the same element.

White space

White is the fourth color. Default to more white than feels comfortable. If a layout looks empty, it's probably right.

SECTION 04

Typography.

Two type families. SF Pro Display does the talking. The Seasons does the singing, used selectively on covers, pull quotes, and accent moments.

HEADLINE

SF Pro Display · Bold
Tight tracking, generous size

A place to land, before lease day.

BODY

SF Pro Display · Medium
Default tracking, 1.5 line-height

brightplace helps families find apartments without the part where you decode school zoning, commute math, and lease fine print on a Saturday afternoon.

ACCENT

The Seasons · Regular
Covers and occasional headings

A place to land, before lease day.

Updated May 2026. SF Pro Display replaces Outfit/Arial as the brand typeface. SF Pro Display and The Seasons supersede the fonts listed in the v5 content guide.

SECTION 05

Voice and tone.

Warm, direct, human. Like a knowledgeable local friend, not a marketing team.

---

01 Lead with what we do and why it helps.

Skip the windup. The first sentence should already be useful. If you cut the headline, the body should still make sense.

---

02 Always positive. Talk about what we offer, not what others lack.

Comparisons can be useful, but never the lead. We're not the alternative; we're the answer.

---

03 No em dashes. No banned words.

Use periods, commas, or parentheses instead of em dashes. Avoid the words below.

vibrant

bustling

hidden gem

signal

navigate unlock dive into

best-kept secret

thriving

room in budget

For "signal," use instead: indicator, evidence, data point, pattern, intent, behavior, finding.

---

04 No ranking language unless substantiated.

"Best," "top," "leading": these need a source or they need to go. "Strongest" only if we can show our work.

---

SECTION 06

Social and writing rules.

Before and after

BEFORE

"Discover the most vibrant, bustling neighborhoods in Dallas — unlock hidden gems and dive into your next home with confidence."

Banned words. Em dash. Five clichés in one sentence.

AFTER

"Four Dallas neighborhoods where families can actually find a place to land. Here's the math on each."

Specific. Useful. No banned words. No em dash.

SECTION 07

CTAs and Fair Housing.

CTA rule

All CTAs point to brightplace.ai. Never a guide URL. Closing line in long-form copy: "discover your perfect apartment on brightplace."

---

DO

"discover your perfect apartment on brightplace at brightplace.ai"

"find your next place at brightplace.ai"

Always lowercase. Always points to brightplace.ai.

---

DON'T

"Read the Dallas guide at brightplace.ai/dallas-guide"

"Visit BrightPlace.ai today"

No guide URLs. No capitalized brand or domain.

Fair Housing

Never describe neighborhoods using race, ethnicity, religion, national origin, familial status, sex, or disability. Describe by lifestyle infrastructure only: walkability, transit, dining, parks, nightlife.

DO

"15-minute walk to three grocery stores, two parks, and the Red Line. Restaurants open past 10pm on weeknights."

Lifestyle infrastructure. Specific. Verifiable.

---

DON'T

"A young professional neighborhood, popular with families."

Describes the people, not the place. Off-limits.
